"I am not merry, but I do beguile The thing I am by seeming otherwise."

Thurston, the Magician, takes another rabbit out of the bag.

The situation in the nationalist party in China couldn't be much more mixed up if they had just held their convention in Madison Square Garden.

The "Old-time Democrat" who writes in to propose Carter Glass for the Presidency hasn't stopped to reflect that the only thing the Democrats would find harder than to nominate a Northern wet would be to nominate a Southern dry.

There are no Republican leaders quite so enthusiastic for a third term for Mr. Coolidge as the ones who were getting ready in 1922 to deny him a renomination for Vice President.

Judge Macdonald seems to have overlooked the fact that the modern one-arm driver hasn't any whip to wrap the reins around.

The internecine warfare in the Republican party of Pennsylvania reflects the inaptitude of an electorate brought up on one boss trying to be governed by four.

Mrs. Edward C. Carrington, having won her divorce, let us hope the family will now take the wash out of the front yard.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, with the great scholarship which characterizes him, calls attention to the fact that we ought to adopt "Teletopy" before the monstrosity "Television" crowds into the language. What this country needs, as the Doc would say, is a pure law, but the inventor of "movies" doubtless in good time will give us a snappy handle, like "talkies."

Somebody seems to have overlooked the contract for the rest of the blinds on the Y. W. C. A.

We fear that this latest accident to the Nats is going to keep Bucky Harris from being "up on his toes."

The police who nab a distinguished citizen for having two half-joints of alleged cawps don't seem to have heard that Gen. Andrews is only after the big fellows.

Senator Reed will probably have to decide that it's a waste of time to try to keep the slush-fund committee alive with a pulmotor.

Where is my rose of Waikiki, And when will she come back to me?"

The Horace Dodge at Honolulu has picked out a famous place for his restoration of busted romance.

Eminent chemists report there are our kinds of odors, not counting the Carrington divorce suit.

Mr. William G. McAdoo arrives a town not at all certain that the Democratic party is sufficiently courageous to be able to stand another major surgical operation.

The Library of Congress receives a new set of Chinese classics, just published, but we suppose some Senator will keep 'em out six months and prevent the rest of us from reading them.

Those chemists who announce that there are only four odors have never been to a zoo.

The radio commission grants 38 permits for the use of our air.

The Coast Guard is looking for an ariopod mariner in a small sloop, 40 miles off the Virginia capes. "Larger vessels may venture far, but smaller boats should keep near shore."

Two world records are hung up by American fliers for the rest of the world to shoot at, and man is now able to stay aloft longer than the eagle and soar to altitudes where the condor may not follow. We have taught the birds to fly and the fish to swim.

"And the moon shines, on the moonshine, still," says Bert Williams used to sing. It looks as though he'd need a heavy cawn cravat round Fairfax Court House this season.

But is this this winter, last winter, or next winter that they're having in the West?

There is some consolation in the affection that what the cool man gets the ice man doesn't.

It'll be time enough for the farmers to provide bathtubs for their 1000 when they've got 'em for them-selves.

We fear that Secretary Jardine's recommendation for open plumbing and showers in the sty reflects the notorious influence of spuds on agriculture.

CHINESE SCRAMBLE FOR LOOT FOLLOWS TROOP MANEUVERS

Armies' Seesaw Fighting Called Excuse for Plundering.

FINAL ISSUE AVOIDED, IS VIEW AT SHANGHAI

Interest Centers in Effort of Chiang Today to Drive Out the Radicals.

(Special Cable Dispatch) Shanghai, April 14.—The Chinese war has degenerated into a scramble among the militarists for loot.

Playing a monstrous game, the rival armies of the northerners and the Cantonese shuttlecock back and forth across the Yangtze merely to provide pretexts for plundering. Millions of Chinese civilians throughout the Yangtze valley have suffered outrages worse than any that have occurred since the Taiping rebellion.

One day the Northerners capture Pukow and haul down the Cantonese flag at Nanking and the next day the Cantonese recover the territory. It is a futile seesaw without a prospect of improvement.

No Final Issue Sought.

The worst phase of the situation is that neither the Northerners nor the Cantonese appear able or willing to face the campaign to a final issue. Foreign military experts believe it is improbable that the Cantonese will make substantial progress north of Shantung.

If the Cantonese ever occupy Peking and Tientsin it will be through aggression rather than fighting. Having advanced a few hundred miles north of Nanking, the Cantonese suffered an overwhelming defeat, indicating that the Shantung troops under Chang Tso-Lin are determined to put up a formidable resistance.

It is reported that Chang recently received generous support from Japan, which is anxious to protect Manchuria from Cantonese radicalism.

The disorganized nature of the fighting north of Nanking has prompted the powers to redouble the precautions for the defense of Shanghai. British airplanes today were landed and encircled the city as a warning to the irresponsible mob in the native city that the authorities will not tolerate an invasion of the international settlement.

Ammunition Confiscated.

The seriousness of the menace to the settlement was shown when it was revealed that 4,000 guns and 300,000 rounds of ammunition were confiscated by the Cantonese soldiers during yesterday's raids upon labor agitators.

The weapons were concealed by laborers residing on the edge of the settlement.

From Hankow come reports that the 88 Americans who remained there against the advice of American Consul General Gause are threatened with mob violence. The lawless element at Hankow is beyond control. A navy wireless dispatch said:

"The foreigners who remain at Hankow face daily personal danger, with the possibility of a sudden outbreak."

COAST GUARD SEEKS MAN FAR OUT AT SEA

Small Sloop's Occupant Given Food From Steamer Last Monday.

Norfolk, Va., April 14 (By A. P.)—A small sloop occupied by a lone man, which was sighted at sea Monday evening just before dusk by the American steamer Levisa and which was supplied with food by Capt. A. A. Dalzell, master of the steamer, is being sought by the coast guard. Sighting of the small craft so far from land was reported here by Capt. Dalzell yesterday on his arrival.

The craft was 40 miles off the Virginia capes. The man, who according to Capt. Dalzell declined to give his name, was captain and crew of the sloop. His vessel was displaying signs of distress. She drew alongside the Levisa and her occupant shouted to the men on the steamer's deck that he had been at sea for three weeks, having sailed from Jacksonville.

Food was supplied by Capt. Dalzell. He appeared to be very grateful, but declined to give any information about himself or where his little craft was bound.

But is this this winter, last winter, or next winter that they're having in the West?

There is some consolation in the affection that what the cool man gets the ice man doesn't.

It'll be time enough for the farmers to provide bathtubs for their 1000 when they've got 'em for them-selves.

Circuit Judge Ferguson took the case under advisement until completion of the trial of Earl's father, who is held also in connection with the murder. Selection of a jury started immediately. Earl admitted the killing, saying he "brought her brains out" with a shotgun "because she wanted to be killed."

Flier, in Seaplane, SOARS 22,000 FEET HERE FOR RECORD

Lieut. G. R. Henderson, in Corsair Ship, Rises Above the Clouds.

DONS OXYGEN HELMET IN RARE ATMOSPHERE

Takes Off From Anacostia Station; In the Air Hour and 20 Minutes.

Lieut. George R. Henderson, of the navy, flying from the naval air station at Anacostia yesterday afternoon, established a new world altitude record for seaplanes, according to expert, though unofficial, readings of his instruments at the end of a flight of an hour and 20 minutes.

Lieut. Henderson was unaccompanied and his plane carried a load of 1,102 pounds. He reached an altitude of more than 22,000 feet, bettering the old world record by more than 2,000 feet. The old record of 20,200 feet was made last December by A. Passaleva at Sesbo Calenda, Italy.

The flight was made in a new navy standard observation Chance Vought corsair seaplane, and was begun with out any previous announcement that an effort would be made to establish a new record.

Navy officials were jubilant, although restrained in their comment, when the height altitude by Lieut. Henderson had been checked on his instruments by experts after he had returned to earth.

Official Check Planned.

They were confident that a second and more official check would sustain the result of the first study of the instruments and definitely establish the new record altitude.

Lieut. Henderson began his record-breaking flight at 3:26 o'clock in the afternoon. He landed at 4:45 o'clock.

Lieut. Henderson was forced to use his oxygen helmet in the making of his record. He donned the helmet at a height of 15,000 feet, he said after he was landing, and kept it on while he was going up on his world record and on his way down to earth again until he returned to the 15,000-foot level.

The general expectation that the court would grant the government's motion as a matter of course did not materialize.

"It is so unusual for defendants asking to be tried that I am not disposed to refuse their appeal," Justice Hitz remarked, after George P. Hoover, of counsel for Sinclair, had earnestly pleaded with the court to deny the government's motion for delay.

Finally, after Owen J. Roberts had added his appeal amidst charges by Hoover that the government counsel did not live up to stipulations with counsel for the defense, the one month's delay was granted as a compromise. But Justice Hitz added that May 23 is the latest date that could be set if the case is to be taken up at this term of the court.

Hoover wanted the court to insist upon written and filed stipulations between counsel that the trial would actually commence at the date named, but Justice Hitz said the counsel would have to set that matter among themselves. Thus the government counsel are free to come into court at a later date and ask for another postponement, but Justice Hitz, judging by his temper yesterday, will not be disposed to postpone the trial, especially as he commented on the fact that the indictment had been pending since May 27, 1925, and he seemed impressed by the expressed desire of the defendants, Harry F. Sinclair and Albert B. Full, to come into court and stand trial.

Apart from the reasons given in the government's brief for desiring the delay, Roberts frankly told the court that he needed additional witnesses, including H. M. Blackmer and J. C. O'Neil, who are in Europe, to prove the government's charge beyond a reasonable doubt.

The plane's instruments were carefully checked before the flight by Captain C. Sonntag, F. S. Holbrook and R. W. Smith, experts of the bureau of

200 LIBERALS KILLED, LATIMER DECLARES

90,000 Rounds of Ammunition Captured in Nicaraguan Battles, He Reports.

(By the Associated Press.)

A detailed report of the recent battles between Nicaraguan conservatives and liberal forces at Muy Muy and Tiera Azul, received yesterday at the Navy Department from Rear Admiral Latimer, said more than 200 soldiers of Gen. Moncada's command had been killed and that the conservatives had captured 90,000 rounds of ammunition, with rifles, seven machine guns and three field pieces.

The dispatch said the liberals, in anticipation of their retreat before the victorious government forces, destroyed many rifles in an effort to keep them from falling into enemy hands. Liberal troops retreating through the mountains in the vicinity of Muy Muy and Tiera Azul, it added, numbered about 500.

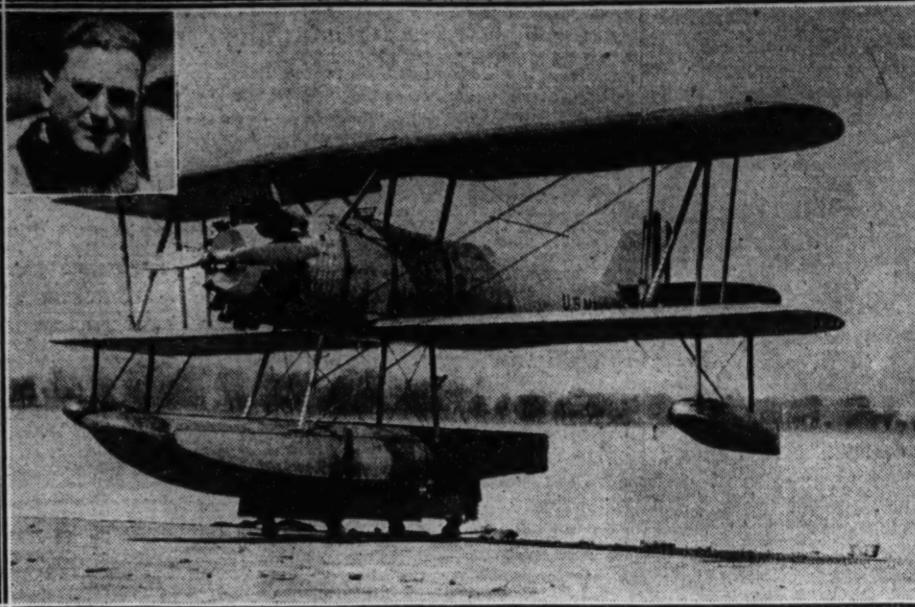

"All of the other liberal troops," the report said, "have been put to rout or have been destroyed."

Boy of 15 Makes Plea Of Guilty to Murder

Poplar Bluff, Mo., April 14 (By A. P.)—Earl Jackson, 15-year-old farm boy, today pleaded guilty to murder in the death of his stepmother, Mrs. Mary Jackson, 21, third wife of Marion Jackson.

100 KILLED OR INJURED BY QUAKE IN ARGENTINA

City of Mendoza Reports 16 Known Dead; 9 Die in Santiago, Chile.

VAST AREA IS SHAKEN

Mendoza, Argentina, April 14 (By A. P.)—At least sixteen persons were killed and more than 50 injured in this city by an earth tremor which shook the city at 2:30 o'clock this morning and lasted 20 seconds.

The full toll of the quake, the strongest felt in Mendoza in 30 years, was not definitely known late today.

Police reports showed that several buildings collapsed and many others were damaged.

Reports trickling in from the interior of the province of Mendoza indicated that the toll of dead and injured was likely to reach 100.

In one section of the city alone fourteen houses collapsed. The population still was panic-stricken, most of the people refusing to return to their homes in fear of a recurrence of the shock.

Santiago, Chile, April 14 (By A. P.)—A strong earthquake, lasting almost a minute, which was felt over a 1,000-mile stretch of the Chilean coast today, took the lives of at least 9 persons and caused the injury of fully 60 more.

The quake was felt over an area from Copiapo southward to Valdivia and caused property damage and injury in

CHEMISTS SAY ODOR IS CLASSIFIED INTO 4 DISTINCT KINDS

Correspond to Species of Small Nerves, Assert Richmond Speakers.

TADPOLES NARCOTIZED FOR STUDY OF TOXICITY

Convention of 1,500 Scientists Ends; Next Meeting to Be Held at Detroit.

Richmond, Va., April 14 (By A. P.)—More than a score of leading organic chemists from the nation's laboratories of education and industry today described chemistry's varied attack upon the secrets of nature at the closing technical session here of the seventy-third annual convention of the American Chemical society.

The society's next national meeting will be held in Detroit, Mich., for one week beginning September 1.

Chemical science has ferreted out the nature of smell and has detected and identified four kinds of odors, according to a paper presented yesterday by Drs. C. Crocker and Lloyd R. Henderson, research chemists of Cambridge, Mass., before the division of organic chemistry of which Prof. F. B. Dains, of the University of Kansas, is chairman.

Stimulate Different Nerves.

A system of odor analysis and classification has been developed which recognizes but four competent types of sensation, corresponding it is believed, to the four basic tastes.

"The four types of odor are fragrant, acid, burnt and caprylic." Odors are considered as stimulating these nerves by different degrees of intensity which may be represented as follows:

"The complete description of any odor is made possible by a four digit number, in which the odor of the digits follows a simple arbitrary arrangement—that of odor of interest for most people."

"As an example of this code, the odor of rose may be stated as 6433, the odor of acetic acid 3803 and that of freshly roasted coffee as 7683."

Scientists may now pick out their odors by numbers and thus simplify their work, the authors who explained that "a list of materials has been assembled which will enable anyone, anywhere, to set up standards. With these standards one may use the system either for description of odors or the sensing of odors from the numbers."

Studying Mode of Decomposition.

A study unique to science is being made at Johns Hopkins university of the stability and mode of decomposition of individual compounds at high temperatures.

"Any desired compound is placed in a 100 cubic centimeter steel bomb, which is heated in an electric furnace at constant temperature," said the report of the experiments offered here today. "Ruthens have been made at various temperatures from 300 to 500 degrees centigrade," said the report.

Over the Coffee Cup

WHY be old-fashioned in your ideas about coffee? Just because your Grandmother liked a certain blend doesn't mean that you necessarily must prefer it also. You wouldn't trade your flivver for a horse and buggy, would you? Or electric lights for a kerosene lamp?

You may say that you are perfectly satisfied with the coffee you are using. I believe, though, that if you would try Wilkins Coffee you wouldn't be satisfied with anything else.

Wilkins Coffee is the result of twenty-seven years of blending and roasting experience. For over a quarter of a century its sale has been growing—now it leads the field.

Buy a pound and "try it on suspicion." If it isn't the best coffee value you ever had, return it to your grocer or direct to us, and get the entire purchase price back.

FIRE AT MORGANTOWN RAZES BUSINESS BLOCK

Theater and Stores Among Buildings Burned; Damage, $1,500,000 to $2,000,000.

FOUR FIREFMEN TRAPPED

Morgantown, W. Va., April 14 (By A. P.)—An entire business block here was wiped out by fire early today, causing damage estimated at between $1,800,000 and $2,000,000. A theater, jewelry store, hardware store, music store and other buildings were razed.

At a time the blaze impelled the whole business district of this college town, home of West Virginia university. Only the fact that a building on the corner of the block was well down last week to make room for a new one saved property in an adjoining block.

"There are factors necessary for the production of an explosion, whether it be due to gases, vapors, or dusts, vapors, or dusts, vapors, or gases, namely: A combustible substance, oxygen supply, and source of ignition," they said.

The study shows that when a large number of individuals of any one organic species are exposed to a chemical agent, they are likely to show the same degree of injury, and a certain average time or dosage."

How poisons act chemically and physiologically was described by J. E. Miller, technical adviser of the chemical warfare service, Edgewood arsenals.

Presentation was explained by the controller of oxygen, who shown by the experiments was discussed by G. W. Jones and G. S. T. J. Perrott, of Pittsburgh, before the division of gas and fuel chemistry.

Three factors are necessary for the production of an explosion, whether it be due to gases, vapors, or dusts, vapors, or dusts, vapors, or gases, namely: A combustible substance, oxygen supply, and source of ignition," they said.

Four firemen were trapped in the building of the Orr Bros. department store, where the flames were first discovered by two policemen, but were rescued. Two of them were overcome, they were subsequently burned when fighting a sheet of flame while fighting the blaze from atop the city hall.

Help was summoned from surrounding towns, the fire being beyond control of the local firemen.

Several other firemen suffered minor injuries.

Gaining headway with great rapidity, the fire descended into the structure of the three-story building in less than 90 minutes. When the walls of the structure crumbled they wrecked the front of a building untouched by the flames.

The fire was checked after a four-hour battle. The origin of the blaze was undetermined.

"MIKE'S" INVENTION DESCRIBED ON RADIO

Berliner Tells How He Discovered Principle in Phone Operation.

A story of the discovery of the microphone was given radio fans from station WRC last night by Emil Berliner, its inventor. The inventor's radio address was in observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the "mikes" invention.

A friend, said Berliner, while working as an operator at the local fire alarm office, showed him how to send a telegraph message. Berliner said:

"I was so interested that I asked him to keep it a secret, and he did."

Illness Diagnosed as Acute Nervous Breakdown by His Physicians.

MRS. CARROLL ALSO ILL;
HAS BRONCHIAL ATTACK

Theatrical Producer Can Not Be Removed to Cell for Week, at the Least.

Physicians attending Earl Carroll today issued their first signed bulletin on his condition, definitely diagnosing his illness as a severe nervous breakdown.

"The patient is in an acute collapse or coma, and these attacks not infrequently occur in the types of illness from which he suffers," said the bulletin.

The attack, according to the physician, is similar to one the theatrical magnate suffered two years ago and resulted from the "severe mental strain under which he has been laboring for the last two months."

Improvement is Seen.

Carroll, under sentence of a year and a day for perjury in connection with his "celebrated bathtub party," entered the third-fourth hour of a stay of execution in the hospital of the city tonight. Physicians said he had improved since he was removed unconfined.

G.O.P. TRUCE ENDED BY PENNSYLVANIANS; FACTS TO CLASH

Mellon-Grundy Forces Beat Old-Age Pension Bill of Senator-Elect.

WARE ENTERS ALLIANCE
WITH PITTSBURGH CHIEF

May Team With Morin in Next Primary for United States Senate.

By NORMAN W. BAXTER.
Political warfare has broken out again in Pennsylvania. The Republican truce to which the three factions of the state were parties following the election last November, to an end with the adjournment of the legislature at Harrisburg on yesterday.

William S. Vare, whose major efforts still are directed at the aim of getting a seat in the Senate next December, has not as yet run up the battle flag, but the Mellon-Grundy forces are in the shot that reverberates throughout the political sections of the State.

In the closing days of the legislative session the forces of W. L. Mellon and Joseph H. Grundy defeated by a vote of 151 to 131 a proposal advanced by the Vare machine to incorporate a new item of old-age pensions into the constitution of the State.

Vare made a personal effort to get this measure through. His sister-in-law obtained its passage in the upper chamber, but it died in the state branch. The Philadelphia boss was confident that he could exercise sufficient influence to get it through the House and before Gov. Fisher.

Enemies See Vare Defeat.

As the result of the defeat enemies of Vare have stated that Vare has been driven back into Philadelphia, and that his hold on the State has been broken.

There is, however, another side to the picture which forecasts a tremendous political struggle yet to come in the Keystone State. Vare undoubtedly sustained a severe reverse in the legislative and the Mellon-Grundy insects triumphed. Vare came out of the struggle with an offensive and defensive alliance with John M. Morin, actual and practical boss of Allegheny county and Pittsburgh, which will be the chief weapon to use against his political enemies.

Morin already has told his friends that his ambitions lie in the direction of the United States Senate, and the fact that the Mellon-Grundy forces that he and Vare will run jointly in the next primary, provided the latter is forced by exclusion from the Senate to become a candidate then.

There is danger to any political force even one based on the Secretary of the Treasury, in such an alliance of the two city bosses of Pennsylvania.
It means that Senator David A. Reed, who was coming up, Vare support in the primary for past services, had to make a real and possibly an uphill fight to return to the place which he now holds, and certainly an internal struggle that will rock the Republican party in the State.

Strength in City Alliance.

Conditions in a State-wide campaign will be entirely different from those that exist at Harrisburg. Vare and Morin, for they were together in the matter of old age pensions, could do but little with the rural delegations.

In a primary campaign, however, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, "turned out the water" to Vare, and he pulled the trick, and almost enough to carry the State. Vare in the election, for instance, carried only ten counties of the State other than those which form the two big cities. In a half a dozen of those, however, his majority was negligible over Wilson. The Democratic candidate was strong enough to come down to Philadelphia with a majority but finished its work in Philadelphia and declared the winner by more than 150,000.

A coalition between Vare and Morin on the same slate in the primary would be hard to beat, many observers believe. Vare won in the last primary despite the fact that he did not carry Pittsburgh. The Washington Post reporter, so that when aligned with Morin on an all-for-both basis his strength in the party fight would probably be increased. Should the situation be complicated by the entry of a few more candidates for the nomination, and several incipient booms are already in the making, the task of the two bosses would be made all the easier.

All that is needed still to make open and acknowledged warfare between the divergent elements is for Vare to disavow Reed. He has not done that and probably will avoid doing it as long as possible. Even there he has everything to gain and nothing to lose. Senator Reed can hardly afford to abandon the right wing, he began his forty-ninth Congress, but if he did it would not seem possible now that any shift he might make can make much difference to Vare.

The probabilities are that the next Senate will show no more mercy toward Vare and Smith than the c- just past

Bathtubs Are Urged For Health of Hogs

Specially devised bathtubs for hogs on farms not so fortunate as to have a brook running through them were recommended to farmers by the Department of Agriculture in a statement issued yesterday for publication by farm papers.

The statement pointed to the natural disposition of a hog to wallow in mud whether it is sanitary or not, and said that unless the hog has running water to wallow in it is better to provide him with a tub for his bath to prevent his wallowing in stagnant pools.

Of course, however, the hog's tub will not have an enamel finish. According to the statement it should be constructed of concrete to support the weight a hog often carries.
It should be wide and long—10 feet wide and 13 feet long. But it shouldn't be deep. Twelve inches at the entrance end and 18 inches at the opposite end were the depths recommended. An outlet at the bottom, it was said, would be necessary.

did to the senator-designate from Illinois, so that Vare can not be said to have done him any great harm by not supporting him, since he thinks he will help him most in 1928 at the earliest possible moment.

His advocacy of the old-age pension system, supported by Morin, may very easily, despite its defeat, form a valuable adjunct to their joint campaign in the industrial districts of Pennsylvania which are as much rural as they are urban. The joint ticket, therefore, has a chance to do better in the rural counties than Vare alone was able to do either in the primary or election of the past year.

Serbian Minister's Arrival Is Expected

The ranks of the diplomatic bachelors will be augmented with the arrival, probably Saturday, of Dr. Vojislav Antonijevich, newly appointed Minister of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes. The new minister is to be accompanied by his sister, who has heretofore represented the legations at which he has served.

Dr. Antonijevich, about 50 years old, is a career diplomat, having been in the service for about 25 years. Before the war he was chargé d'affaires in the Serbian diplomatic service. During the war he was first secretary of the legation in London. Since then he has served as Minister to Rome, and his most recent assignment has been as Minister at Madrid.

REED COMING TO CAPITAL ON "SLUSH-FUND" PLANS

Chairman to Confer With King and They May Aban-

COURT ACTION MONDAY

The fate of the Reed "slush fund" committee during the recess of Congress probably will be settled at a conference here this weekend between Senator
James A. Reed, of Missouri, and Senator
William H. King, of Utah.

The Missouri senator will, according to information obtained yesterday at the Capitol, return from his vacation on the purpose of meeting with his colleague in conference in which the committee now is engaged.

The impression yesterday afternoon was that the outcome of their deliberations will hang the entire status of beginning of the Seventieth Congress, and that nothing more is to be done in the meanwhile

REIGN OF ANDREWS EXPECTED TO INSURE SANE ENFORCEMENT

Held to Have Had Difficult Task in Uprooting Flamboyant Tactics.

LIQUOR STILL POURING, DESPITE ONSLAUGHS

New Smuggling Channels Established as Old Ones
Are Bottled Up.

By WALTER H. ATKINS.

Continuing in office of Brig. Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews as "prohibition generalissimo," which today seems an assured fact, means, among other things, a more lenient method of dealing with "vicarious tactics" in administering the liquor laws. Andrews for the past year has had a tough time trying to uproot many of the flamboyant methods so long in vogue, but he has succeeded fairly well.

Andrews, who has the full sanction of Secretary Mellon, is both liberal and sensible and has been shown in actual practice to be practical. This policy has been to safeguard the rights of private citizens, as far as may be possible, from interference by government.

He maintains and protecting the rights of legitimate business interests holding permits under the permissive provision of the Volstead law; the concentration of the government's forces in the uprooting of the principal of liquor supply, and leaving to the States and municipalities wherever possible the handling of purely local situations growing out of Volstead law violations.

Andrews is after the big flows in the little streams, is not bothered so much with the small bootleg operators or the small distillers who make and peddle ten gallons or so of corn or rye. It is the so-called "boozie king," who engineers the large liquor rings, who is the main target of Andrews' efforts.

He maintains there is enough for the relatively small force at his command to do, if it is concentrated upon the fellows who deal in illegal liquor by the barrel, by carloads, and who all too frequently frequent his office comfort are getting away with the game without detection.

Decentralization Program.

The aim of Gen. Andrews is to carry on the fight against these principal liquor sources in the future until they are eliminated as a liquor problem. He believes that the decentralization program which he previously put into effect has met with such success, effect that it should be continued.

One of the greatest benefits from decentralization—the enlargement of the field of operations—has been to remove some of the embarrassments to legitimate liquor users and dispensers.

Persons so engaged have permits from the Treasury under the new state clause of the law. It is the helping of the Treasury that it is helping legitimate business, in proportion to the success that may be achieved in eliminating the illegitimate liquor industry.

As in the past, attacks upon these principal sources of liquor will be directed at these principal sources given in the order of their relative importance: First, smuggling of imported liquors, the most conspicuous source of supply; second, industrial alcohol which is diverted from legitimate to illegal channels; and third, the domestic manufacturer.

Continues to Pour.

In spite of the terrific onslaughts made by these three principal liquor objectives, however, enforcement authorities find that liquor continues to pour in an almost unending flood. The coast are blockaded and run rows are abolished. New streams of liquor then begin rushing through other channels.

(Copyright by W. H. Atkins.)

Consider, for example, the government's battle with "Rum Row" off the north Atlantic coast. Scores of ships in the rum fleet hung continuously on the shore and in communication with the shore. The fleet was broken up when the armistice of World War I came, but now days remain far out beyond the average cruising radius of patrol vessels. But breaking up the rum fleet did not stop smuggling. Big bands of imported liquors resorted to other methods and are using those methods now with amazing success.

Under the strictest orders to refrain from commenting on the subject of pilfered or forged documents over which he had no control, Col. Davis, American military attaché at the United States embassy in Mexico City, reached Washington yesterday and reported to his immediate chief, Col. J. E. Reeves, chief of the military attaché division of the Army.

Col. Davis made a brief report to his chief and the War Department bulletin apparently on the subject on which he was summoned to Washington, and then left the department for the day.

During the brief period Col. Davis spent in Washington, the War Department officials succeeded in preventing newspaper men from communicating with the visiting officer. It was said in Col. Davis' behalf, however, that he had "nothing to do with newspaper men" and "he would not talk for publication." Officials gave the impression that they did not desire undue notice made of Col. Davis' visit to Washington and the mission he is on.

Smugglers Shift Operations.

But, when cut off at one point or area, the smugglers get busy and find other points of ingress. Routed from the north Atlantic and gulf coasts, and more recently have enlarged their operations on the Pacific coast. Smuggling also is increasing in the Canadian and Mexican boundaries.

The government will renew on a larger scale its attacks on the "gin industry" by trying to check the flow of industrial alcohol now being diverted. This is now the main source of liquor diversion.

To do this the government will concentrate its efforts on the independent denaturing plants as well as the manufacturers. Gen. Andrews estimates that the government's annual loss is 16,000,000 gallons of alcohol which is being diverted to bootleg channels last year. But it still pours from the bunghole. It is difficult to prove alcohol diversions.

The manufacturer of industrial alcohol must be cited for his help, and the government has conclusive proof against him, he can resort to the courts and force the restoration of his permit.

Besides the operations against smugglers and industrial alcohol diversions, the Treasury is following up more vigorously the Treasury plane stops, diversions of sacramental wine, to reduce the amount of sacramental wine that is now going into bootleg houses, and to check if possible the flood of high-powered beer from breweries opened after government permits. As the prohibition forces are now constituted, the government lacks adequate strength to tackle the illicit moonshining problem with all hope, but slight success. That is one of the reasons of the distant future, after the other principal objects of attack are attained.

Gossip here is that while Mr. McAdoo is as much anti-Smith as ever, he is not convinced that it is worth while for him to make a stand down and drag his fight to get the nomination such as he made in 1924. Some of his friends said today he felt there was much apathy in the country and that he felt uncertain to what extent the voters could be aroused to activity against Smith or in behalf of a Democrat in 1926.

Comparatively Few Detected.

Hundreds of thousands of moonshiners are believed to be operating, but the proportion of those detected is comparatively small. Seven years of prohibition has seen a quick change in the viewpoint of the average farmer, who, in uprooting the principal sources of the soil as a whole, but is receptive to the belief that it is no moral wrong to convert a $1.50 bushel of rye or corn into four gallons of distilled liquor, for which a ready market pays $20 or $30.

It's a poor moonshiner who can not make liquor for 40 cents a gallon, and some produce it for as low as 30 cents a gallon. However, profits of the farmers are increasing more and more in the art and enlarging his field of operations, the government's policy now contemplates leaving such enforcement problems to the States and municipalities except situations where failure of the States or municipalities to cooperate, remedial action by the Federal government becomes imperative, in the interests of public order and law observance.

One of the causes for the denial of temporary permits to continue operation were granted yesterday by the radio commission to 38 broadcasting stations located in various parts of the United States. These permits are in addition to the 20 now in operation.

It is expected that a series of permits will be granted daily until all of the 723 stations now operating have been temporarily licensed or otherwise denied of operation.

Only two causes so far have been assigned for the denial of temporary permits, one being that the station affected uses a channel reserved for Canadian broadcasting services, and the other that during recent operations it failed to meet the requirements of the radio control act.

The permits are necessary because of the recently enacted radio control act, and unless stations have obtained them by April 24, operators will be liable to fine and imprisonment if they continue service.

PACIFICATION OF NICARAGUA.

The conspiracy against Nicaragua, financed and directed by Mexico through Juan B. Sacasa, has reached an inglorious end by the crushing defeat of the Sacasa forces. The Nicaraguan government has not only scattered the "revolutionists," but has captured their arms and equipment. Some of the arms and munitions bore the stamp of the Mexican government. Nicaragua will now be enabled to resume its normal life, and the harassed people can return to their plantations.

Doubtless the United States marines will be kept in Nicaragua until all possibility of disorder has disappeared; and even then a small force may be retained at Managua at the request of the Nicaraguan government, as a warning against further disturbances.

It has been presumed in some quarters that Henry L. Stimson is going to Nicaragua for the purpose of bringing about an agreement between President Diaz and Juan B. Sacasa, and that arrangements may be made for a presidential election under American supervision. No such program, however, is necessary, and if it were adopted it would do more harm than good. The United States has recognized the constitutionality of the Diaz regime, and has aided it in beating off the foreign aggression that menaced it. No presidential election could be held now without violating the Nicaraguan constitution. President Diaz is entitled to serve out the unexpired term of former President Solorzano. The United States would be taking a backward step if it should now, for the sake of mollifying the Sacasa faction, take a hand in suspending the Nicaraguan constitution. Fresh disorders would occur, and the result of the election, if honestly held, would merely confirm the right of President Diaz to remain in office until the end of his term.

What Nicaragua needs now is relief from revolutions stirred up and financed by foreigners. The United States has put a quietus upon the Sacasa revolution. If Nicaragua and the outside world can be assured that the United States will not abandon its attitude of friendship for Nicaragua, but on the contrary will lend further aid if necessary for the maintenance of constitutional government, there will be little danger of another attempt by Mexico or any other outside conspirator to seize power in Nicaragua.

AIDING THE INVENTOR.

The incorporation of 4,000,000 civilians into the military life of the nation during the months in which the United States was engaged in the great war served to turn the minds of many toward the making and improvement of military equipment. The War Department acknowledges that a nonexpert civilian may have acquired ideas and experiences during a few months of contact with weapons of war which may today be worth very serious consideration on the part of those officers who are charged with the duty of keeping the American army equipment up to date. Until it became necessary for the United States to look outside the limits of the 48 States for information concerning military equipment it was difficult, almost impossible, for an American inventor to get a hearing for himself or a test for his invention either in the army or the navy.

For instance the "Hotchkiss gun" was invented by an American who never could get his weapon adopted by his own country. But he established a factory in Europe and when the "Italo affair" threatened to embroil this country with Chile, "Hotchkiss guns" were ordered in such numbers that a factory had to be started on this side of the Atlantic.

In the early months of 1882 the War Department conducted a series of tests of various types of magazine rifles, of which several were reported to be desirable as equipment for army use. Yet when American troops were dispatched to Cuba sixteen years later many of them were armed with the old Springfield single cartridge rifle of civil war days.

So also it was with the adoption of smokeless powder as ammunition. Representative Gilborn, of California, spent the six years preceding the Spanish war endeavoring to get the authorities to adopt that modern compound instead of the old-fashioned "saltpepper." But the cartridges of Shafter's army were mostly charged with the old-fashioned black powder, which exhibited the location of every American riflemen to the better equipped enemy.

The War Department has learned its lesson, however, and hereafter will give the inventor of any promising military device at least an opportunity to be heard. To that end an announcement is made that a committee has been named that will consider such inventions—and they need not even be perfected inventions to secure such consideration. Ideas that promise valuable results, if developed in the right manner, will be examined and submitted to technical experts in whichever division of the department may appear most likely to be interested, for further examination and report.

This action of the War Department toward the encouragement of nontechnical inventors is the direct outcome of the knowledge of military subjects acquired by members of the A. E. F., and which has resulted in the receipt of many suggestions for changes in the armament or equipment of the military forces within the last few years.

The old time conservatism of the War Department has been superseded by a liberal policy that recognizes that sometimes valuable ideas are hatched in the brains of men with no scientific training.

WORLD'S ENDURANCE FLIGHT.

At 12:42 o'clock yesterday afternoon, 51 hours and 12 minutes after it had taken off from Roosevelt flying field in Long Island, the Bellanca monoplane, piloted by Bert Acosta and Clarence Chamberlain, glided gracefully back to earth, its pilots officially credited with a new world's record for continuous operation. The previous mark, set by the French Miers Drouhin and Landry, in August, 1925, was approximately 45 hours and 12 minutes. Two other records were smashed during the flight just completed—the American continuous flying record of slightly more than 36 hours and the duration flight record of a plane refueled in the air of 27 hours and 15 minutes. The designer of the plane has announced that it will be overhauled immediately and entered in competition for the Orteig prize, offered to the pilot who first flies a plane between New York and Paris.

It was for the purpose of testing the plane for the transatlantic flight that the record-breaking flight was attempted. Actually it covered during its more than 50 hours in the air a mileage considerably in excess of the distance between New York and Paris. On the basis of the time required for the Alcock-Brown flight from Newfoundland to Ireland, Acosta and Chamberlain were in the air long enough to have flown almost three times across the Atlantic, and had covered more than the equivalent of a flight from New York to San Francisco and return.

The success of the New York-Paris flight seems to be assured, either in this plane or in one of the several others which are being conditioned for the attempt. It is significant that this new record, unlike most others, has been accomplished by civilian aviators, flying a commercially designed and built ship. Now that the ice has been broken it seems certain that other commercial aircraft companies, realizing the advertising advantages accruing from such spectacular demonstrations of their product, will enter planes in competition. Genuine progress in the air will be the inevitable result.

for paper making, there is an awakening. States within the region are seriously undertaking to help Nature to reforest the hills. In this work New York is taking the lead. The conservation commission of that State announces that nearly twenty million seedlings will be transplanted this spring with the purpose of starting a new forest growth on denuded lands. Other States are following suit, and vigorous efforts are being made to elicit the support of the legislatures in a policy of forest restoration. While direct financial returns can not be expected for many years, there would be almost immediate benefits in the utilization of waste lands, the increase of wild life and the conservation of the water supply, which is becoming each year a more serious problem to the authorities and residents of large industrial centers.

ONE-ARM DRIVERS.

According to reports emanating from a local citizens' association meeting, Judge George H. Macdonald, of police court, has gone on record as a friend of the one-armed driver. One-arm driving, according to his honor, frequently leads to matrimony, and for this reason he is inclined to be lenient with those who are haled into court on this charge.

The blessed state of matrimony should be encouraged. Gibes at marriage, in cartoon, prose and verse, in all probability have had little effect in discouraging nuptial celebrations, for when a youth and a maiden decide between themselves that a single existence no longer is possible, they usually can not be swerved from their intended course by any means whatsoever. But Judge Macdonald should take other matters into consideration also. No one can handle an automobile properly with only one free hand. A motor car is designed for manipulation with two hands and two feet. Except in an emergency all these may not be necessary, but one never knows when an emergency may develop, and, therefore, it is necessary that both feet and both hands be always ready for use. An arm about the waist of a loved one is undoubtedly in good use, but not at the risk of the loved one's life.

The one-arm driver is also a menace to the public. Courting should be engaged in elsewhere than in a moving automobile. Judge Macdonald should encourage matrimony in other ways that do not jeopardize life and limb.

MORE PEANUTS.

There could be no better time than the opening of the 1927 baseball season in which to herald the newest discovery of the Department of Agriculture, that increased yields of peanuts may sometimes be obtained through closer planting than is now practiced. The department has been conducting tests in cooperation with the South Carolina agricultural experiment station, under as nearly uniform soil and cultural conditions as could be obtained, over a period of three seasons.

Half an acre of soil, classified as Orangeburg sandy loam with a yellow clay subsoil, was prepared in accordance with standard practices and given an application of 500 pounds of ground limestone. Eight hundred pounds per acre of a mixed fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash were then applied and worked in. Only improved Spanish goobers were used for seeding.

The best results were obtained with three-inch spacing in rows two and a half feet apart the average yields per acre under this method of planting having been for the first season $48 pounds of nuts and 2,444 pounds of peanut hay, for the second season 800 pounds of nuts and 1,698 pounds of hay, and for the third season 345 pounds of nuts and 1,314 pounds of hay. The latter crop was held back by unusually unfavorable weather conditions.

WOODSHIRE Two-Trousers Suits

A sensible Man is the one who "steps out" on Easter Sunday in a new WOODSHIRE SUIT. It is just as modishly cut as good taste permits, and yet it includes the added economy of an extra pair of trousers. The more favored light colors are shown, as well as the darker shades, in the following models—

"The University"—a high-lapel, 3-button, single-breasted suit cut to College Men's tastes.

"The Astor"—a semi-conservative model, styled for men in executive walks of life.

"The Cambridge"—a double-breasted suit shown mostly in blues for Spring wear.

"The Wales"—a 2-button sack of easy draping lines for the man of average build.

"The Berkeley"—a sack suit on much the same lines as the "Astor" with a bit deeper lapel.

"The Cambridge"—a double-breasted suit shown mostly in blues for Spring wear.

CAPITAL'S Y. W. C. A.
SHOWS BIG GROWTH;
BEGAN 22 YEARS AGO

Widespread Activities Require Several Buildings and Camp Sites.

THREE LOCATIONS FOUND
TOO SMALL FOR GROUP

First Quarters of Organization
Were on F Street
at Twelfth.

Founded in 1905, the Young Women's Christian Association of Washington has grown steadily in membership and breadth of activities until today it occupies several buildings, including a newly erected and dedicated headquarters at Seventeenth and K streets northwest, which is one of the most modern of buildings in the country. Permanent organization of the Y. W. C. A. was effected in June, 1905, and its first quarters were in rooms rented at Twelfth and F streets northwest, for which Miss Helen M. Gould, of New York, paid the rent for the first year, and the Rev. W. Woodward, of Washington, paid the salary of a paid secretary for the first year.

Three years later in the course of which the association had grown steadily, the first chapter was formed in Mount Pleasant. Today there are several additional chapters. Located in different sections of the city, they have a total membership of 533 and are designated by the section in which they are located. The chapters are Bloomingdale, Chevy Chase, Cleveland Park, Dupont, Georgetown, Mount Pleasant, Park View, Piney Branch and Princeton. Gallaudet college is represented by another special group comprising 53 members.

Sites Too Small.
Construction of the new seven-story headquarters, which was built by the Willing & Lippscomb Co. Inc., was begun only after the association had successively purchased and sold three sites because they were found to be too small to meet the growth of the association. A campaign to raise building funds was conducted in 1912, but the sum raised were not enough to carry out floor plans and a site was purchased at Thirteenth and I streets northwest. This site was sold in October, 1922, at a profit and a second site was purchased on Twelfth street in April, 1924, but the site was found to be too small and was sold in June, 1925, and the Seventeenth and K street site, on which the new building stands, was purchased subsequently.

In the meantime the properties of the association were added to through gifts. In 1906 Dr. Joseph Tabor Johnson gave an acre of land in Chevy Chase, Va., and on it the Indoor-Outdoor club, composed of 100 women, who built Vacation Lodge there for the association. The Chevy Chase chapter, in 1912, purchased an additional one and a half acres of land for the lodge.

Back to F Street.
The association moved from its quarters at 936 F street northwest in 1915 after the building had been declared unsafe, and took up quarters in the Federal bank building at Fourteenth and G streets northwest, remaining there until 1920. The purpose of the bank to construct its new building made another move necessary. This time it was to the Adams building, on F street, which was remodeled and used as administrative headquarters and regional center. This property was sold in 1925, and headquarters were moved to 614 E street northwest, which had been acquired in the interim and had been used as a branch building. The Vacation Lodge property had been increased in size again in 1922.

BUILDING COMMITTEE
LED BY MRS. WRIGHT

Camp Site Is Gift.

Mrs. Fred E. Wright was chairman of the Y. W. C. A. committee which had charge of the building of the new headquarters of the association.

Other members of the committee, which formed to turn the building over to the full association with appropriate ceremonies at its dedication were Mrs. John B. Kendall, Mrs. Robert Lansing, Mrs. H. C. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. A. Chambers Oliphant, Miss Bertha Pickett, Mrs. William Adams Shad and Fred E. Wright.

Mr. William Hamilton Bayly is honorary president and Mrs. Thomas Edwin Brown is president of the association. Other officers are Mrs. Albert H. Putney, first vice president; Miss Mildred J. Bartholow, second vice president; Mrs. Luke L. Wilson, recording secretary; Mrs. Lansing, corresponding secretary, and Miss Margaret B. Fox, treasurer.

The board of directors comprises the foregoing officers and Miss Irena Bailey, Mrs. William C. Brown, Mrs. Frank Clegg, Miss Frances E. Chickering, Mrs. Wilson Compton, Mrs. Herbert L. Davis, Mrs. Harold E. Doyle, Miss Elizabeth Eastman, Mrs. Allan B. Fay, Mrs. Alfred C. Fisher, Miss Estelle G. Gandy, Mrs. John Gandy, Mrs. Harry E. Hull, Miss Oliphant, Mrs. Edwin B. Studebaker Announces the Opening of a New Salesroom at 1636 Connecticut Avenue

FOR the convenience of residents in the Northwest district, a new Studebaker Showroom has been opened at 1636 Connecticut Avenue.

The public is cordially invited to visit this new location to see The President, the world's fastest-selling 7-passenger sedan, and The Commander, the car which recently traveled 5000 miles in less than 5000 minutes, thereby setting five world's records. These and other Studebaker Custom models, as well as the Erskine Six, the Little Aristocrat of Motordom, await your inspection.

In order that you may know the thrill of Studebaker performance—flashing speed, exhaustless power, and velvet ease of handling—we invite you particularly to drive a Commander yourself. Learn with your own hands on the wheel, your own foot on the throttle, why the Studebaker Big Six is far out-selling the combined totals of all other cars in the world of equal or greater rated horsepower.

An exact duplicate of the record-shattering Commander is ready for you. See it—drive it—today.

These men will be glad to show you Studebaker and Erskine Cars at the new Studebaker Showroom, 1636 Connecticut Avenue.

Diamonds in Good Condition Ready for Season's Opening

Far and near, in cities and in hamlets, from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, men sigh with renewed contentment. The season is open. Play Ball! Every diamond is a marvel of close-cropped greenness, baselines are swift pathways to fame; grandstands and bleachers are roaring seas of hero worshipers. Play Ball!

But for every green diamond, remember that there are millions of black ones. They, too, are clean and glistening; they, too, will bring a sigh of contentment when you know that your coal bin is bulging with them, bought at the season when prices are lowest.

"CARRY YOUR CAR ON YOUR KEY RING"

Try This—Evenings

Rent a car—take your family or friends for healthful, pleasant drives

HERE'S renewed vigor and new inspiration for tired nerves and bodies in store for you—if you'll simply take advantage of a plan that is bringing pleasure to thousands.

Tonight—or any night—stop on your way home from work—select a fine open or closed car, as you choose—and, after dinner, take the family or friends for a long, restful drive.

We rent you a car, without further identification, if your name appears in the phone book and you are qualified and competent to drive a car. If not—give us one reference—that is all. Either way—you're on the road in about two minutes.

No one tells you where to go and what to do. You're the driver—and you use our cars as you would your own.

Try it tonight—or stop in and get, free, your Key to Hertz Driv-Ur-Self Service which enables you to rent a car without a moment's delay. To thousands—this is the magic Key that carries the promise of evening and week-end trips with family or friends so low that men in most moderate circumstances can well afford to make frequent use of our cars.

This spring and summer—enjoy your evenings outdoors. Spend your week-ends away from trains and crowds in a fine private automobile you drive yourself.

INSURANCE
When you rent a car from us you become one of the insured under a public liability insurance policy with limits of $10,000 and $100,000 per person, respectively, for property damage. This policy is supplied by one of the largest old-line insurance companies. We further protect you against collision damage over $10 to rented car and against loss of car through fire or theft.

RELIGIOUS MUSIC, PLAYS ON WRC RADIO TONIGHT

Goldman Band to Be Followed on Program by Anglo-Persians.

"PARSIFAL" OVER WMAL

There will be no jazz music over WRC tonight. Instead Good Friday music will predominate in the radio program of this as well as outside stations. Also scriptural readings and religious plays will be given. Of the latter, possibly the most pretentious will be "The Terrible Meek" with Charles Rann Kennedy, its author, and Edith Wynne Mathison, taking part before the microphone tonight at 7 o'clock.

Edith Wynne Mathison, the noted Shakespearean actress, who in private life is Mrs. Charles Rann Kennedy, was recently awarded the reward to her by the American Academy of Art and Letters of the gold medal for good direction on the stage.

This noted production, which has been played year after year during Lent, is to be given in the Market Square, New York, on Good Friday. The play is a drama and thrilling to read as to act. The play has three characters, an army captain, a peasant woman and a cockney soldier. It was written during Holy week of 1911 and was produced by William Gillette, the famous actor, in New York, during the following Lenten season. Edith Wynne Mathison took the role of the peasant woman at that time. Clergy of all denominations took an interest in it and copies were sent to high officials. The play has traveled the world with the result that by the Lenten season of 1913 the play was done in over 2,000 churches. Each Lenten season has seen it given wider scope.

Following this presentation the Goldman band, through WRC, will be heard at 8 o'clock in a program appropriate to Good Friday, which will be the theme of the Lord Calvert hour of music at 9 o'clock. This will likewise be true of the Anglo-Persians, who will have as their opening number "Memory to You" and "The Crucifixion" by Thomas Tallis, who has been called the father of English cathedral music.

The WRC program will conclude with a solo and a variation of Rossini's cantata "Stabat Mater" with special soloists and an orchestra under the direction of Cesare Soderi, will be broadcast 10:30 to 11:30 o'clock. The soloists will be Adele Thurkurst, soprano; Frances Parrotte, mezzo-soprano; George O'Brien, tenor and Jack O'Conley, basso. "The Stabat Mater" is the old hymn of the Crucifixion scene.

There will be three early features at WRC, the Dixie Jubilee Singers, "Shopkins" with Mrs. "Sam" in "Sam's at the Market Today" by Anita Hawkins, who will be the official spokesman for Center Market.

"Parsifal," the music of which was begun when Wagner was 65 years old, will be interpreted by WMAL artists tonight at 10 o'clock. In keeping with the solemn spirit of the day the royal hour toasts will visit the Holy Land at 8 o'clock. This is in addition to the service being heard through KDKA and other stations it now can be picked up from WBAL, the newest link in the chain.

Well known choir singers will present Stainer's "Crucifixion" at 7:45 o'clock from station WABC. Negro spirituals will be given from the same station at 8:45 o'clock by the Jubilee Singers, halting from Louisiana. There will be an unusual observance through WTIC Hartford when the Rotarians, Kiwanians in fact all the service organizations, plus the Advertising club, join in a special Good Friday program at 8 o'clock.

Another Good Friday, this time, a special Good Friday program will be on the air from KFL at Los Angeles, when the Beverly Hills church choir will present Debols' sacred cantata "The Seven Last Words of Christ."

Masonic Chaplain Addresses Kiwanis

Work, love and religion are the primary needs of man, the Rev. John C. Palmer, grand chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Masons, yesterday told members of the Washington Kiwanis club, holding their Thursday exercises at the Hotel Washington meeting in the Washington hotel.

Man is incurably religious, Dr. Palmer said, and all true religion is one, regardless of variance in creeds. A quartet from the Luther Place Memorial church, composed of Mrs. E. L. Carle, Mrs. B. H. Smart, J. W. H. Hargrave and Irving Tullar, gave a program of Easter music, with Harry C. Kimball, Lieutenant governor of Kiwanis, at the piano. An anonymous gift of $100 to the Kiwanis orthopedic fund was announced.

Parents to Be Told Their Responsibility

Just what constitutes the dividing line between the responsibility of parents and the responsibility of school officials in the supervision of student activities, is the purpose of a statement being prepared by Alvin Miller, principal of Central High school, Assistant Superintendent of Schools Stephen E. Krasnow and yesterday Dr. E. Newell, principal of Eastern High school, likewise has been named chairman of a committee to decide upon a printed form to be used by high school fraternities and other organizations in their business meetings and social functions. A new set of regulations was adopted at the last meeting of the board of education.

PREHOLIDAY DULLNESS
SETS IN AMONG BONDS

THE WASHINGTON POST: FRIDAY, APRIL 15, 1927.

THURSDAY, APRIL 14, 1927.

(Reported direct from the New York Stock Exchange by J. & W. Seligman & Co.)

Strength of Italian Utility Credit 7s Features Day's Trading.

HIGH-GRADE RAILS GAIN

New York, April 14 (By the Associated Press)—Pre-holiday dullness characterized today's bond market with prices generally holding steady but with a few rather wide price changes in several divisions. Traders generally showed a disposition to permit the market to digest some of the recent offerings before extending their commitments in the listed securities.

The listed activity of the Italian Public Utility Credit 7s was easily the feature of the market. On reports that the issue is soon to be called at 105, the bonds moved up more than 4 points to a new high record at 101, then settled back below par. Total sales of the issue amounted to $1,700,000. Italian Government bonds are active in response to the establishment of the highest level in four years by Italian bond issues. Otherwise, foreign obligations were dull.

New highs and new lows for the year were distinguished in the domestic groups, with high grade rails gaining, while industrials, particularly packing company issues, were active. Second and fourth Liberty 4s were secured in rather large amounts, and there was moderate selling of Treasury 3s.

A $2,600,000 loan to the Bank of Colombia, to carry a coupon rate of 7 per cent, is reported under negotiation.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, April 14 (By A. P.)—Breadstuffs export demand counted a bullish trend in wheat today, and so did predictions of freezing temperatures tonight in the West. Domestic milling demand was also improved. Large as a result, wheat closed firm, but not higher. Corn finished unchanged to a cent up, and oats 1 cent up and 1 cent down. Burying of North cents were to a rise of 20 cents, or for shipment to Europe, while oats were 300 bushels, and wheat 100 bushels, per ton for hard winter grades, the effect of three circumstances in the outgo both fall and spring. Australia was shown the largest amounting to 400,000 bushels, compared with only 6,000 bushels.

Scanty show of stocks of wheat in Liverpool attracted little interest, but an offset was the large amount of wheat now afloat on the stocks, while the grain will be replenished sufficiently to meet the demand.

In some quarters, further rains in domestic winter quarters, further rains in Europe were construed as a matter of fact.

The rains took in all sections where moisture was high, and rainfall.

Unfavorable weather tended to steady corn, however, remained slow.

Provisions tilted upward owing to an advance in oil values.

NEW YORK CITY SECURITIES.

New York, April 14 (By A. P.)—Recent domestic consumption figures for March and unfavorable early weather were followed by advances in the cotton market, but only a slighting up to $14.60 July, but a preholiday realization and closed at the lowest. The general market closed steady, not unchanged to $14.40.

The market opened steady at an advance of 4 to 7 cents in active months showing net gains of 7 to 10 points.

On cotton, October declined from $14.76, the high point of the morning, to $14.68, closed at $14.60.

A 1 cent advance in the day's business consisted of switching from May to later months, and while there was no change in the difference between May and June, the spread between May and new crop deliveries widened out 2 or 3 points.

Liverpool cables reported hedge sellout in liquidation in the market.

There was improved demand for cotton cloths from Hongkong, and May, 4,093, marking 9,200,- so far this session. For receipts, 6,010. United States port stocks.

NEW ROUTES URGED IN PLACE OF THREE ONE-MAN CAR LINES

W. R. & E. Agrees to Changes
Suggested by Utilities
Board Engineer.

COMMISSIONERS SEEK OPINIONS OF PATRONS

Brookland, Central High and Le Droit Park Schedules
Would Be Affected.

R. G. Klotz, engineer for the public utilities commission, yesterday recommended abandonment of three one-man street car routes of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the substitution thereof of three other routes. The company has agreed to the commission's proposal to be made public by the commission soon. In the meantime the members of the commission are desirous of obtaining opinions from street car patrons on the proposed changes.

The line now running from Brookland south to North Capitol street to G street, the one Eleventh street and two streets northwest, would be supplanted by one running from Brookland to the wharves via G and Fourteenth streets.

Another line would operate from Eleventh and Monroe streets to Anacostia and Congress Heights, and would supplant the present Central High school-Anacostia line.

The third proposed change is to stop the Le Droit park cars at the Treasury instead of running them to the wharves.

Trackage of all the lines would remain the same, except that the Anacostia cars would be taken off Ninth street from G street to Florida avenue and would run on Eleventh street instead.

Never Considered Satisfactory.

Klotz said in his report to the commission: "The present routes never have been considered entirely satisfactory, but have been allowed to continue for several years in order to observe the development of each and so to determine what changes finally would prove desirable."

"There is little or no community of interest between the ends of the Eleventh street-North Capitol line and the route has not been highly favored because it does not bring the Brookland people of Eleventh street past the Eleventh street people south of F street."

"The Central High school-Anacostia route was established as a necessary, but not particularly desirable, adjunct to the severance of the former through route between Takoma Park and Congress Heights. At that time it was recognized that the portion of this route lying north of G street would not be particularly remunerative, but it was retained in the hope that the excess service might prove productive of increased traffic. Such has not been the case, with the result that the route, originally only to be regarded as wasteful, has become a drain on the system."

"While the two ends of the Le Droit Park-wharves route fairly are well balanced as to traffic, there is but little traffic on the line."

The routes proposed are as follows:

"Eleventh and Monroe streets northwest, to Congress Heights via Eleventh, E, Ninth, B and Sixth streets, Missouri avenue, and G street; B and G street, at present, returning to Ninth street via F street and G street, between Ninth and Eleventh streets. This will carry patrons of the Eleventh street part to points south of F street, such as Center Market, and will take the left turn at Missouri, E, Ninth and F streets, as well as unproductive service from Ninth street north to G street."

"Twelfth and Monroe streets northwest, to Fourteenth and Water streets southwest, past the bureau of investigation and Water street, north to G street, via Twelfth and Monroe streets, Michigan avenue, North Capitol street, Massachusetts avenue, G, Fourteenth and B (south) streets, Virginia avenue, Eleventh street and Water street. This will bring Brookland, E, Ninth, North Capitol street patrons west to Fourteenth street and, it is reasonable to assume, will develop through riding between the southwest and northeast sections."

"Georgetown and G street northwest, via W, Fourth, Elm, Third and Fourth streets, New York avenue, Fifth street and G street. This will care for LeDroit Park traffic adequately and can, if need be, be extended to the northeast of Georgetown in rush hours to furnish service to that point and to avoid undue congestion at Fifteenth and G streets."

Brewer Seeks New Trial in Bribe Case

Rev. Daniel J. Shields, brewer and politician of Pittsburgh, Pa., who was convicted last Saturday of a bribe on the fifteenth and sixteenth counts of an indictment charging bribery, filed a motion for a new trial and asked judgment yesterday through Attorney James S. Easby-Smith and Michael D. Doyle.

One of the grounds set up in the motion is based on the contention that the jury found Shields guilty of an offense which he did not commit, that is, the bribery of Mrs. Della Hayes Evans, former stenographer in the prohibition enforcement unit, with $200 on April 24, 1924, to furnish information concerning Pennsylvania brewer when she was not employed by the government on that date, the interpretation of the bribery law in this jurisdiction being held to be unlawfully that which they can not do lawfully. The motion will come before the court on April 22.

BABY AND PETS SAVED FROM APARTMENT FIRE

Patron, Lather on Face, Is Driven From Barber Shop
by Smoke.

FLAMES IN THE BASEMENT

Dense clouds of smoke, pouring from the Prescott Arms apartment building at New Hampshire avenue and M street northwest, yesterday tended to exaggerate a fire in the basement and caused the sounding of a second alarm. The fire was marked with frantic flights to safety and rescues of tenants and domestic pets. Damage was estimated at more than $1,000, caused mostly by smoke damage.

Franklin Butler, 12 years old, rescued his pet cat, "Mot," and rushed down the fire escape. Mrs. Frank Donahue was aided down a ladder by Fireman C. P. Flinn. James Clayton, 17 years old, was carried through the smoke-filled corridors by his aunt, Mrs. A. B. Pickaler, while his mother, Mrs. H. L. Clayton, fled to the street with two pet canaries. Mrs. Charles Buck and Charles T. Dickey fled down a fire escape.

The Central High school-Anacostia route was established as a necessary, but not particularly desirable, adjunct to the severance of the former through route between Takoma Park and Congress Heights. At that time it was recognized that the portion of this route lying north of G street would not be particularly remunerative, but it was retained in the hope that the excess service might prove productive of increased traffic. Such has not been the case, with the result that the route, originally only to be regarded as wasteful, has become a drain on the system.

The tailor shop of George Gueritz, at 243 Fifteenth street southeast, was partially destroyed by a fire which originated when he employe set a basin of gasoline too near a stove. Damage was estimated at $300.

Miss Chrysanthemum Hamline, 1722 Fifteenth street northwest, appealed to the fire department to extinguish a fire which had broken out in her home. When firemen from No. 9 engine company arrived they discovered that the lids of the kitchen stove had not been replaced after fuel had been put on the fire and had caused the house to become filled with smoke.

Mother Sues Family
in Case Over Estate

Mrs. M. I. McGhan Seeks to Prevent Removal of Furniture From House.

Mrs. Marion I. McGhan, 624 Sixth street northeast, widow of Addison H. McGhan, filed suit yesterday in equity court against her son, Charles A. McGhan; her married daughter, Mrs. Isabella Short, and her husband, Garland Short, of the same address, to prevent the removal by them of the household effects of the McGhan home.

McGhan died March 26. He was the inventor of a scaffolding equipment which bears his name. Prior to his death his wife had suffered a stroke. The daughter, Mrs. McGhan, is executrix of the will. By the terms of the will virtually all of the estate, valued at from $25,000 to $50,000, was devised in trust to the daughter, who was instructed to pay her one-half of the net income and pay herself the other half. No petition for the probate of the will has yet been filed.

Mrs. McGhan says that she owns the Sixth street home and that her request to have the estate held in trust has not been complied with. She also says that she fears that they will take possession of the assets of the estate without authority. Attorney C. Larimore Keeley appeared for Mrs. McGhan.

Hillsdale Citizens Name Pastor Head

The Rev. C. B. Ashton was elected president of the Hillsdale Citizens association of Anacostia at its meeting Monday in Anacostia. Other officers elected were Mrs. L. Frye, vice president; Robert G. Mason, secretary, and W. C. Johnson, treasurer.

The association petitioned the District commissioners to extend Morris road to Alabama avenue and Sheridan road through from Stanton road to a place A, a ravine on Stickfoot creek and a water main and sewer on Stephens road also were requested. Improvements were urged for the children's playground in Anacostia.

The Reward

Sutherland, White Are Sued for $100,000

Hassenclover & Co., of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, filed suit yesterday in equity court against H. C. Sutherland, property custodian, and Frank White, Treasurer of the United States, to recover $100,000 which is alleged to have been unlawfully seized in 1918.

This amount, the plaintiff says, was in possession of Bayard Co. Co. of New York, and was seized by this firm in Liberty bonds which were in turn seized although the property of the plaintiff. Attorney E. N. Cherrington appeared for the plaintiff.

Girl, Flames Victim, Succumbs to Burns

Catherine Madas, 7 years old, of 1016 Florida street northeast, who suffered severe burns about her body Tuesday died yesterday in Sibley hospital. Dr. J. Ramsey Nevitt, coroner, certified accidental death.

The girl, according to police, was playing with matches in the kitchen of her home when her clothing caught fire.

Her screams attracted her father, A. F. Eliot, who was burning about the house in his coat. He put out the burning clothing, but not until the flames had scorched the body of the child.

DOUGHOREGAN MANSION ARMY BUILDING MODEL

Camp Meade and Fort Humphreys Will Have New Quarters.

PUREST COLONIAL DESIGN

Doughoregan Manor, in Maryland, 12 miles from Camp Meade, on the Ellicott City-Frederick road, and 2½ miles from Ellicott City, will be one of the models for new army buildings to be erected at Camp Meade and Fort Humphreys. Plans for construction will be ready about May 15, and work will be started in June.

The office of Maj. Gen. G. B. Cheatham, quartermaster general, is working on final plans for new buildings at three posts, and will submit for low as far as possible an adaptation of colonial style of architecture in their design, basing it on a number of fine examples of colonial buildings in Maryland and Virginia.

Doughoregan Manor was built in 1717 by Charles Carroll, then attorney general of Maryland, and was enlarged in 1802 by his grandson, Charles Carroll of Carrollton, first United States senator from Maryland. It was designed by Maj. Pierre Charles L'Enfant, first planner of Washington, and is considered one of the finest examples of colonial architecture in the country today.

Officers and architects of the quartermaster general's office visited the building when they were received by Col. Philip A. Carroll, present owner, and made an inspection.

There is available for construction of barracks at Camp Meade $410,000, and there was included in the second deficiency bill, which failed to pass the last session of Congress, an item of $60,000 for barracks for a battalion of infantry. It is planned to provide ultimately for Camp Meade accommodations for a garrison of 163 officers, 1,000 noncommissioned officers and 2,000 enlisted men.

For construction at Fort Humphreys there is $150,000 available, and the proposed garrison at this station will consist of 50 officers, 73 noncommissioned officers and 850 enlisted men.

$167,500 TO W. R. & E. FOR USE OF RAIL LINE

Sum Awarded on Contracts With Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Firm.

The Washington Railway & Electric Co. was awarded the sum of $167,566.86 yesterday by Circuit Justice McCollum in action against the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railroad Co. in connection with the operating contract and supplemental contracts concerning the use of the lines of the Washington company from the District of Columbia to the terminals of the Annapolis line. This sum represents the principal of $134,981.38 and interest thereon of $32,548.43.

The Washington line, through Attorneys Barbour and Bowen, was sued to recover a sum of $291,000 as due for a period of from 1907 to 1924. The Annapolis company contended that all it owed was represented by the difference between the sum of $337,044.31 which was actually owing to the Washington line to the time of the termination of the contract, and the sum of $51,000.38 which had been paid on account, thus leaving a balance of $145,440.22.

This case was once submitted to a board of arbitration composed of W. Gwynn Garman, former District commissioners, and Joseph F. McCabe and Orion M. Barber. Justice Hoehling tried this case in the spring of 1926, all parties concerned having waived trial by jury because of the complicated nature of the case. Last November Justice Hoehling remanded the case for a retrial without having rendered a verdict. Attorneys Hogan, Williams and Hartson appeared for the Annapolis company.

Today, the commission will study the first set of plans and design for the internal revenue building, take action on revised plans for the new post office, and to the McKinley manual training school under construction at Second and T streets northeast, study the additional treatment of the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery, and inspect plans for completion of the lower garden of Meridian Hill park, Sixteenth and W streets northwest.

Cosmopolitans Plan Attendance Contest

An attendance contest to begin with in the next few weeks and run for five weeks, was announced by the Cosmopolitan club at the Lee House yesterday.

Peter Frank Gordon and Frank Driscoll were elected captains of the teams. The drive will close with a dinner.
